Sibfords Historical Society Social Evening

This will be held at the Village Hall on 20th February, 2020, and the theme is based on the Rev. Stevens' diaries, which can be seen daily on the Sibfords' website, thanks to Tim Huckvale. Miss T Catering will provide a hot dinner in keeping with that time, the 1880's, and it would be fun if you were to come in a costume to identify with one of the characters in the diaries. Entertainment TBA.

FILM NIGHT

On Saturday December 21st it is the turn for the children to have their film.

The film is Toy Story 4.

When Bonnie takes the toys on her family's road trip, Woody ends up on an unexpected detour that includes a reunion with his long-lost friend Bo Peep, whose adventurous spirit and life on the road belie her delicate porcelain exterior. Woody and Bo are worlds apart when it comes to life as a toy, and they soon realise that that's the least worries.

Film starts at 4.30. Doors open at 4.

Refreshments available. Tickets £2.

The January 2020 film is on Wednesday January 29th.

The film is Fisherman's Friends (12A)

A London music executive heads to a Cornish village on a stag weekend when he is pranked by his boss into trying to sign a group of shanty singing fishermen. He becomes the ultimate 'fish out of water' as he struggles to gain the respect or enthusiasm of the unlikely boy band and their families.

Film starts at 7.30. Doors open at 7.

Refreshments available. Tickets £2.

NATURE NOTES

Lexie Hopper sent us a photo of a moth found in their garage in Burdrop. It was a Herald moth, a species that emerges in the Autumn and then overwinters in caves, tunnels, outbuildings and similar places. They are incredibly attractive moths with a dusting of shiny orange/red scales as well as delicate white markings on their brown scalloped wings.

Sue Sabin has reported seeing flocks of up to 20 Skylarks in the fields around the Sibfords. This is a species that has recently declined dramatically (75% between 1972 and 1996) This is probably mostly as a result of modern farming practices including the switch from Spring to Autumn sown cereals. The RSPB have demonstrated that leaving small skylark plots in arable fields can be highly beneficial to the birds.

With the fairly mild and wet weather this Autumn has been excellent for fungi although surprisingly I have seen very few of the ordinary Field Mushrooms. I am no expert but a few of the more obvious and easily identified ones that I have seen around the villages have included the red and white Fly Agaric mushroom normally associated with Birch trees. This species has been used as a hallucinogen but is also highly poisonous causing severe liver damage if consumed in large amounts. Another species to be wary of is the Yellow Stainer. There were large numbers growing in the grass outside the village hall this year. The base of the stipe turns bright yellow when cut. Apparently, some people can eat this species with no ill effects whereas others can suffer from severe vomiting, diarrhoea and even coma! Not worth trying! On the other-hand we have gathered large quantities of Horse mushrooms, Parasol mushrooms and the violet coloured Wood Blewits all of which are edible and excellent.

Please send any contributions for the next Nature Notes to ajnewbold88@gmail.com

SIBFORD GOWER PARISH COUNCIL

Sibford Gower Parish Council A personal message from the Chairman

To all of you in the Gower reading this, I do hope you will think to come to the upcoming Open Meeting of the Gower Council. It's on Tuesday, 10th December – 2 days before the Election!

We will have all the usual items on the agenda, including the implications for us of the recently heard Hook Norton Road Development Appeal, but I hope you will join us as readily just as a village forum in which you can meet up with fellow villagers to review current developments, needs and issues. The agenda will be on the Sibfords website and the noticeboard by the Village Hall on Thursday 5th December, not long after this edition of the Scene reaches you.

The evening will include a conversation picking up on the high level of interest that was shown earlier in the year in the newly experimental annual summer Parish meeting – and whether you would like to see this sustained next May when the date comes round again. If you remember it was run last time under the banner of 2 Parishes 1 Community, and had more of a celebratory feel to it. But this meeting unusually is an one-off example of direct democracy in the year, rather than the more usual representative democracy, by which the two Councils run. Those of us elected to represent you on the Gower Council will be taking our direction from you on the 10th on how best it might be run this time around.

We do hope the reputation of direct democracy has not been too tarnished for you by events post the 2016 Referendum and the proximity of the General Election proves no disincentive to your coming to ours! You will all be very welcome!

Hugh Pidgeon

SIBFORD DRIVERS

The Sibford Drivers wish their customers and potential customers a very Happy Christmas and New Year. This is the first festive period with which we will be contending and we hope there will be enough drivers around who have not gone to stay with their families or are otherwise incapacitated from giving lifts. Please do not hesitate to try your luck but at least a day's notice is required so that we can accommodate your needs. In the New Year when we all settle back to more normality, please do let us help you get around. The first months of our endeavours have not been overactive and we remain extremely keen to get you out of your houses and make the most of life in the lovely place where we all live.

SUPPORTING

The BRAIN
TUMOUR CHARITY

As the weather gets colder, there has been a distinctly chilly theme woven through the learning of our oldest children at Sibford Gower Endowed Primary School, as Oak Class explore their topic entitled 'Frozen Kingdom'. Exploration of this topic began with the arrival of a surprise parcel, accompanied by a letter claiming to be from a Professor Matland of the Royal Geographical Society.

We opened the parcel to discover a 'sample' of ice taken from the Ross Ice Shelf in Antarctica. The children had an opportunity to explore this very closely, applying and developing their learning approach as scientists. Everyone's 'learning muscles' were stretched as the children noticed, questioned, and made links with their wider knowledge to explain their thinking. They made some detailed observations which generated a wide variety of scientific questions, predictions and hypotheses and we explored a range of scientific vocabulary.

Even more extraordinary than the arrival of the scientific sample, was the small object that emerged from deep inside as the ice melted away. Our learning approach moved from that of the scientist to that of the historian as we used the information provided by this clearly man-made artefact to support further research.

The object turned out to be a tiny but ornate diary page marker, produced in East London and possibly from as early as the 1890s, which we can only assume was dropped by someone on an expedition within Antarctica. Who could it possibly have belonged too?

Our younger children began their half-term topic on the theme of 'Muck, Mess & Mixtures' in an equally 'hands on' (or hands and arms in!) way with a special launch morning. They came to school in old clothes and spent the morning immersed in a carousel of scientific exploration and vocabulary development as they explored the qualities and changes in a range of substances as we acted on them. What does shaving foam feel like? What happens when we mix cornflour with water – how does it feel and what does it do? What happens to jelly cubes if we add warm water? What if we then cool the liquid? What do different breakfast cereals feel like? What happens if we put water on them? What happens if we mix different colours? How do I make bubbles and how do they behave? The amount of new scientific vocabulary the children used during these activities that they will further explore as they move through the topic was impressive, and they had great fun!

In Your Garden - December/January

In December.

1. Check any new trees or shrubs for stakes and ties, in case of gales, and don't forget to brush heavy snow off shrub branches before they break.
2. Now that veggies have finished, give the soil a good dig over and leave the frost to break it up.
3. Shorten stems on roses to prevent wind rock, and now is a good time to prune currants and gooseberries.
4. A rooted Xmas tree can be planted out to use next year, but if you want you can consider shredding the leaves off and using them as a mulch for ericaceous shrubs, e.g. camellias.
5. The greenhouse needs to be kept as clean as possible, to prevent fungal growth, home for slugs etc., and it is a good idea to check your garden gloves before you put them on. I unfortunately found a sleeping Queen wasp was hibernating in mine last year. Ouch! I love pottering in my greenhouse when all outside is cold and wet. I have an old radio in there and sing along to carols, (or Wagner) with a mug of coffee and a biscuit or two....

In January

1. Cut some of the leaves away from hellebores to show off the delicate blooms.
2. Apple and pear trees are dormant now, so good time to prune them, and it is time to put a bucket over the rhubarb to force it.
3. Rake the leaves off the lawn and carefully lift them off the snowdrops, when you see them poking through.
4. If you have a greenhouse with some heat, or a frostproof cold frame, there are some early seeds you can plant. Lettuce, spinach and cabbage, sweet peas, and bedding plants e.g. lobelia, snapdragons.
5. Look at your garden and see if it needs some more winter colour. Pansies and violas do well in pots, with tulips hidden deep down under them for later, and mahonias are just starting to flower now, brightening up shady places.
6. If you have room for more shrubs, ponder on buying some cornus alba sibirica - lovely red stems that gleam in the sun - or witch hazel (hamamelis pallida), winter jasmine, or daphnes.
7. Don't forget how berries can light up the darkest garden - holly, pyracanthus and cotoneaster are all looking brilliant now. Little winter aconites grow well under trees, with cyclamen.
8. Winter in the garden need never be a dreary place; the first little snowdrop that opens will make your heart sing, so get out in the sun (hopefully) and enjoy the crisp, frosty morning (but don't walk on the lawn if it is frosty), feed the birds, and I hope you have a very happy peaceful Christmas.

DID YOU KNOW??

EVACUEES IN THE SIBFORDS (part 2)

Evacuees coming to the rural areas found great changes. Sibford had no sewage system installed during the war years so most evacuees had to adapt to earth closets with their outdoor location and associated smells. At Grounds Farm there was only one outside bucket lavatory which must have required frequent emptying. Few houses had electricity so candles and oil lamps were used. The majority of houses had no running water and, with little heating, many city evacuees considered that they had been moved to the slums! Even if they had been able to stay at home in the cities, life there would also have changed. All street lighting was discontinued with a strict black out being imposed to avoid towns and cities being identified by bombing raiders.

In addition to families being evacuated to rural villages the government organised the relocation of schoolchildren along with their teaching staff. In general school groups were kept together wherever possible. Special trains were organised and groups of schools were brought to the rural villages. The children and staff were billeted in ones, twos or threes depending on the available space in any partially occupied homes. The children were taken to Gowers Close in the Gower and distributed to village homes from there. The home occupier was then responsible for the care and catering for their evacuees. These children suddenly increased the number of pupils in small village schools and in Sibford they could not be accommodated in the classrooms available. The Mission Room in the Gower had been put in reasonable repair by the Friends War Victims Relief Committee workers with some local help. It was used as accommodation for some of the evacuees. The Friends Meeting House was used as an annex to Sibford Gower School. Divided into three classrooms each area catered for pupils in 3-year groups to cover the nine years of schooling to 14 years of age as required at that time. The graveyard allowed for some playground activity – but nothing boisterous! School meals were provided in the Old Village Hall situated at the back of the Wykham Arms. The evacuee children joined in all the village activities including Cubs and Scouts which were run by Eric and Mabel Payne during the war years. Sibford Gower Manor was also used as a packing factory for explosives and evacuee children joined in the workforce helping to pack the boxes there. During the six to seven months period known as the 'Phoney War', a few evacuees returned to their city homes but, due to the requirement to continue education, most children remained with their village families. Long lasting friendships between evacuees and their host families were made, some are still in touch and some even made their permanent homes in their new rural villages enjoying life in the countryside. I would love to hear from anyone who could add their own evacuee stories

Sibfords Historical Society

On 17th October the Village Hall was packed, not only with Sibfords Society members but also with a considerable number of railway enthusiasts and fans of the Barn Well Hill Railway. Colin Hill gave us a fascinating and lively presentation on his Swalcliffe project – the ever-growing minimum gauge railway, stretching out behind his cottage, which never ceases to attract attention and is the source of the many questions he answered for us. To the frequently asked question, “Why are you doing this?” he replies, “Why not?”

Colin has always been mad about trains, from the beginning in 1953 when his grandfather gave him a model railway for Christmas, throughout his career as Radar Technician and Systems Engineer at Marconi, then at Jaguar Landrover as Engineer and Technology Specialist. In his spare time he was constantly working on restoring locomotives and has always been interested in quirky, unusual engines.

When Cathy and Colin moved to Swalcliffe the plan had not been to build a track in the garden; it just evolved gradually, and Cathy has been completely involved in the whole development, even to the point of drilling sleepers and shifting ballast. Neighbours and friends have enjoyed helping out in working parties.

The presentation took us through his whole life up to now, with great photos of the young Colin standing on top of a huge steam engine right up to the present where he is seen driving his third loco, “Glyder”, which arrived in 2018 and is soon to be renamed “Agnes” after Cathy’s mum.

Colin is now designing his fourth loco, this time wholly electric and carbon-free and equipped with rack and pinion propulsion for use on the steep inclines.

He invited us to drop by and have a look at the progress of the project, or simply to have a little ride in the train. I think he and Cathy are going to be inundated with visitors!

The railway has its own Facebook group page for those interested.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH CHATTER

Just in case you get this issue of the Scene early - don't forget the Christmas Coffee Morning from 10am until 12noon at the home of Brian and Eleanor Joynes, Silver Birches, Backside Lane - always a really delightful event and one to which you are ALL invited.

Sibford's traditional Carol Service will be on Friday December 20th commencing at 7pm. There will be LOTS of carols for everyone to sing, some familiar readings, the Benefice Choir will sing four lovely carols, and there will be "seasonal refreshments" afterwards as well as the draw for the Christmas Hampers. Do come!

Children and Families are specially invited to the Christingle and Crib Service (Otherwise known as Chaos on Wheels) at 4pm on Sunday December 22nd. Once again, LOTS of carols for everyone to sing, and we make the crib scene, and light our Christingles.

From 11am on Christmas Eve the "Hawkes Chorale" (my sons and daughters in law) will sing carols before the start of Midnight Mass. In the past some of you have been unwise enough to say you really liked their singing - so I've booked them for 30 minutes this year!

As you know, Liz and I are retiring at the end of January 2020, and our final service will be in Swalcliffe (It's big enough and has a loo and a kitchen!) at 11am on Sunday January 19th followed by LUNCH. I do hope many of you will be able to be there to celebrate our departure!!

Dangers of becoming a Money Mule.

Thames Valley Police are urging parents and guardians to warn children about the dangers of becoming a money mule (someone who transfers stolen money through their own bank account on behalf of someone else, and is paid for doing so).

Criminals use money mules to launder the profits of their crimes.

Young people are often unaware that acting as a money mule is illegal. They are approached online or in person, including through social media, at school, college or sports clubs.

Spot the signs and follow these tips on how to stay safe:

- * Ensure your child doesn't give their bank details to anyone.
- * Advise them to be cautious of unsolicited offers of easy money - if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.
- * Look out for your child suddenly having extra cash, buying expensive new clothes or electronic kit, with very little explanation as to how they got the money.
- * A young person involved in money mulling may become more secretive, withdrawn or appear stressed.

Parents/guardians are advised not to attempt to contact any individual they may suspect of organising money mulling, and should instead contact Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Message from Emma Tarry, Police Communications Officer, Thames Valley Police.
