SEPTEMBER 1990 No. 139

THE VESTRY GARDEN - KATHARINE HOUSE

It was with feelings of delight and apprehension that I accepted the challenge of designing, planting and maintaining a small garden at The Katharine House Hospice. Sibford School was approached by the architect (John Simms) with a view to involving the pupils with the scheme. The plans have been drawn up and the builders are busy constructing raised flower beds and water features.

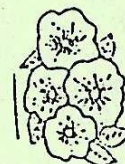

It will soon be time to plant up the garden and this is where I am hoping that residents of The Sibfords and Burdrop will be able to help me. The Vestry Garden is small and faces North. It will therefore be shady and dry. I have devised a planting scheme designed to produce a restful and fragrant refuge for the patients and their visitors. A list of some of the plants which I am wanting to include appears at the end of this article. If anyone reading this has a surplus of bulbs, a herbaceous clump that would divide or even a cutting that would grow on, I would be delighted to hear from you.

I would like to be able to put up a wall plaque which might read:-

'This Garden was donated by the residents of the Sibfords and is maintained by the pupils of Sibford School'.

If you would like to help but cannot actually supply any of the named plants a donation, however small, would be greatly appreciated (either for buying plants which are not available from local gardens or to put towards the cost of trellis-work, rose arches etc.). If you are able to donate any of the plants please drop a note through my letter box at Nansen House, Hook Norton Road, Sibford Ferris. I will then make arrangements to collect the plants from you. Any financial contributions should also be left at Nansen House.

Janette Skeath (494).

THE SCENE'S NEW VESTMENTS:

When the Times redesigned its front page 'Black clouds' rolled in!! the Radio Times new layout brought cries of despair.

It would seem, therefore, that six votes against our new Scene is rather fewer than expected when compared with the eighteen or so compliments received.

The main source of criticism (apart from the 'twin set and pearls' comment of including Tradesmen's names such as Tesco in our light-hearted articles) was the size of the print - no-one actually said they could not read it but all six spoke on behalf of those who may have difficulty.

Our Technical Adviser - Sue - thinks this can be overcome with more severe editing to reduce copy submitted and thus larger print would be possible.

So here's another Go -- What do you think ?

(The Scene is grateful to the Editor of our sister paper, The Epwell Echo, for his helpful and encouraging comments.

SIBFORD'S REDOUBTABLE REVIVAL

(From The Boundary Man in France - is Sibford playing French Cricket?)

A barren June in which the dismal weather matched results, transformed into a rich harvest of bright and enterprising cricket in July, with the village team winning six league matches in a row. Disappointment, however, in the League Cup Final with Sibford losing for the second time in three seasons, despite effervescent performances from Nigel Fletcher and Roger Gilbert.

The most noteworthy feature of the season has been the batting. Skipper David Inns has hit four half centuries, although Ron Morbey has totted up the highest individual score with a brilliant 91 against League leaders, Radway. The full time return of Adrian Lamb to the field has consolidated the middle order and with the engine room of Fletcher and Gilbert to revive any early setbacks, the batting has looked the most secure in several years.

Roger Gilbert has led the bowling attack with accuracy and guile and Brian Holliday has added to its variety with some genuine "Hedley Verity" (a prize for identification - the Vicar is excluded!). However, the most pleasing aspect has been the progress of Chris Sabin; for when work has permitted, he has displayed uncanny movement with his left arm pace and swing "Catches win matches" and the improvement in results is in no small way due to a series of brilliant individual efforts, notably by Ian Gilbert and David Pratt.

The further virtues of village cricket life - excluding the excellent teas - has been the resurrection of the Ferris v Gower match, which identified the many fine players currently resident in the village; the growth of the new generation of players, spearheaded by Chris Sabin and Ian Gilbert and the number of father and son combinations available for the next few years and the extraordinary devotion and keenness of Matthew Spicer, who has turned up each week to act as twelfth man, scorer and supporter - thank you Matthew - your presence is appreciated.

Finally, a thank you to Bert Gilbert for his 4½ hour stint each week at each end of the wicket - his Persil White coat, and his six coins (and on occasions eight!) - his presence is appreciated and needed.

P.S. June, July, August & September results in October issue -
Averages in November issue.

A Tribute to Brenda Philips

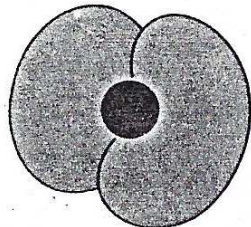

In birth and death we think of gifts - gold and frankincense and peace.

Brenda Philips gave and left us with hope. Hope that we might ourselves survive and endure great pain and do it all with great style. But Brenda did more than survive and endure - she flourished.

She brought a very special ingredient to being an invalid which we saw as we visited her fireside or met her in her Bernard-pushed wheelchair around the village. It was a continuing optimism and energy and love which greeted everyone she met but for me, as others, her interest in life and people was the continuing quality we remember.

Brenda Philips is not just remembered - she remains in our affection and in our love, and perhaps most of all in our hopes.

THE ROYAL BRITISH LEGION APPEAL

The First World War leaves us with 5,500 servicemen and dependants needing help. The Second World War with 245,000 to date. Do you know that 'peacetime', since 1945, has given us a legacy of some 70 conflicts; 4,000 servicemen killed and 16,000 injured.

The Poppy Appeal exists to help these people and we shall be calling again this year for your donations, with our customary gratitude. To my band of collectors please take a moment from your busy polishing of boots ready for the "off", to let me know of any difficulties; collections are between 29th Oct. and 10th Nov. this year.

John Mulley, Hon. Organiser.

The Editor is grateful to the Editor of the Deddington Deanery Magazine for permission to report the following from his August edition.

We have recently said farewell to four local people, including Bertha Warmington, wife of Les, who was buried at Sibford on 25th June. She hadn't been well for some time, but her passing was sudden.

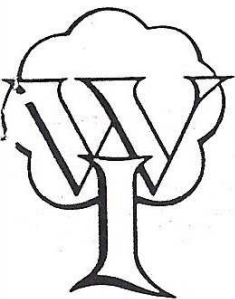

Jack Bristow, from Burdrop, died very suddenly at home towards the end of June. He had been a scientist of dedication, having done night school classes to obtain his degree. He was a great family man, with particular pride in recent grand-children.

To the relatives and friends of these people, we extend our love and sympathy; may they rest in peace and rise in God's glory.

At the June family service, William John Ben Parmiter and Hannah Elizabeth Richards were both baptised; and the two fathers were responsible for reading the two lessons at the service.

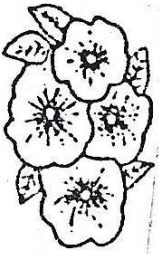

On July 8th, Rachel Lambert, Dr. Agnew's latest (at the time) grandchild was baptised.

W.I. The July Meeting took place in Mrs Soden's beautiful garden on a warm sunny afternoon. Mrs Soden served delightful cream teas, and a most enjoyable time was had by all.

It was pleasing to welcome two guests - Mrs Brenda Philips and Mrs Jean Puddle. A quiz on jewellery was organized by Mrs Conway, and Mrs Johnston proved a clear winner. The Sibford entry for the County Produce Shield - "Midsummer Madness" Competition on June 18th, gained above average marks, and thanks were expressed to those members who took part, for their time and effort. Mrs Crabtree presented Mrs Soden with a Garden Gift Token in appreciation of her generous hospitality. The next meeting will take place on Tuesday 11th September in the Village Hall at 2pm, and will take the form of an Elizabeth Arden make-up demonstration. Competition - a small mirror.

NATURE NOTES

JUNE 29th When we tried to break off part of an old tree stump which thought would do to block a hole in the hedge bottom where the lambs were getting out, we disturbed some young tree creepers that scattered in all directions. As I could see no sign of a nest in the stump, I think they may just have flown and collected together in the stump as a place of safety when we came along. They allowed us to collect them up and put them back again, so I hope they will be alright.

JULY 10th I think there should be a close season for flail hedge trimmers, to run from mid-March until the end of July. I saw one working today and wondered how many birds' nests it was destroying.

JULY 11th I was disappointed to find a young elm on the farm that looks to have Dutch Elm disease. Having not seen any definite cases for a few years I had hoped that we might have seen the last of it for a while.

JULY 17th Whirlwinds have been troublesome today clearing paths across the rows of straw that I was baling, and leaving some of the straw draped over the power lines that cross the field. During the day the gentle breeze slid the straw along the cables until it came to rest against the insulators, which made me think that, given the right conditions it could become a fire hazard.

JULY 22nd The flycatchers that have nested on the swan-neck of the rainwater pipe on our bungalow, have managed to rear two young which have flown today. The insect eating birds have had a much easier time than the ones that rely mainly on worms for food during the summer. We are putting out some cold porridge each day, which is welcomed by the blackbirds that take it to feed their young. Found a Common Centuary in flower on our very bare sheep pasture.

JULY 27th While on a walk today we came across a very fine broomrape that measured 2ft 6ins tall. It seemed to be using knapweed as its host plant.

AUG 3rd The temperature at the farm reached $95\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}\text{F}$ today which is about the same as it reached in 1976 in the same place.

Ctnd.

AUG 4th Finished combining our wheat today. The crops have all been affected by the drought with modest yields from all the winter corn. The barley and oats were only of fair quality but the wheat produced a surprisingly bold sample. The spring-sown barley was, as last year, very poor.

AUG 17th Badgers have had a job to find enough food during this dry summer. They have dug out most of the wasp nests and I heard of one that was making a determined effort to open a hedgehog which had rolled itself into a ball. The plague of aphids that we would normally expect in a year like this, has not materialised, so I think the ladybirds must have done a good control job.

I trust that you have all enjoyed a good holiday period, and that you are prepared for the longer nights with good locks, well greased and in use!

Nefarious characters have been at work in these villages since the last issue of the Scene, as some of you have experienced! This only goes to show that we need to ALWAYS be alive to the value of vigilance and security!

YOUR Police Force are there to serve you: if you see anything out of the ordinary and suspicious folk about please tell them then and there!

A policeman I met recently paid us all a compliment when he told me that he had never experienced a wasted call from this N.W! Keep it up!

Traidcraft

Traidcraft Goods are now available from me, Julie Webb, at Jessamine Cottage, Bonds End Lane! I have large stocks of tea, coffee, recycled paper products, a few crafts, various spices, pulses and rice: all of these are bought from their sources, mainly in the Third World, at prices which are fair to the workers and do not involve profits going to exploitative middlemen! At the end of September I shall be re-ordering for Christmas: I have catalogues available for those who would like to order their Christmas cards, presents and wrapping paper through me (thus saving postage and packing charges)! The catalogue is worth a look, as it has some really lovely handmade things in it! If you're interested, either pop in (I'm here most mornings and late afternoons) or give me a ring (8247)!

Youth Club

Youth Club will be open on September 10th and 17th after which we will be considering whether we can make use of the new sports facilities at the Friends' School!

If you are 11 or over, and are interested do come along to the Village Hall and let us know what you think!

Any interested parents are welcome to contact Anne Marcovitch on 8163, David Baker, or any member of the Committee!

Romania

Very many people in the village kindly helped me raise money recently for this stricken country, and I gave a talk, with photos (and a sample of folk music!) on my return at the beginning of July! I am most grateful to those who came and donated a further £45! Plans at the moment are to try to bring some children here for holidays, and also to purchase vital equipment for the babies who are suffering from AIDS! I shall be very happy to talk again to interested groups who did not hear the talk!

SIBFORD HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY SUMMER SHOW

Year after year our villages produce an astonishing variety and quality of produce and artistic flower arrangements.

1990 was no exception - the morning, grey with drizzle, cheered up into a dry, sunny and bright afternoon (as our box cameras used to record!)

The huge amount of planning and organisation was only too evident and a sincere "Thank you" from all the villagers are due to our enthusiastic committee.

Many well known local names were emblazoned on Red, Blue and Yellow tickets, and how wonderful to see whole families featured in the prizes.

Memories of Fred, by his brother Sid Lines.

Fred Lines was born on 28 January 1904, being the second son of Thomas W. Lines, who at that time was cowman for Daniel Sabin at Home Farm, Sibford Ferris. He left school at the age of 12 in 1916, and started work at Temple Mills for John Sabin at the grand sum of 4/6d a week, and had to do Sunday mornings as well. He didn't like the job very much because he had to take John, the youngest son out in the pram. It was said that one day he tipped the pram over, so he got out of that job!

At the age of 14 he went to work for Tat Taylor at Swalcliffe Grange - soon to be joined by his brother Steve. Then Fred started to drive the tractor - a wonderful job in those days, though most of the work was still done with horses. He left there to go to work with brother Tom at Nill Farm. Times were very hard, so at the weekends Fred and Steve would go to the golf links, and sometimes picked up more money in one day than they did for the whole week on the farm. At that time of day, one had to meet the motors as they came along the drive and jump on the running board, saying "Caddy Sir?"

I think he then went to work for Joseph Lamb as cowman; this was about 1925. He also had to shut up the chickens around the farm, with hen houses at Draff pool, Field barn, and the last one at Goodins. He was just starting to play in the Band with my father who was the leading Cornet player, so they were always practising out the back of the little cottage where we used to live, now known as Little Thatch. Mr. Herbert who was a teacher at the Friends School was very fond of Fred, and he sold him his motor bike: it was a 1912 "OK" with direct drive from the engine to the back wheel, by belt. The back wheel was a Sturmer Archer 3-speed, with a built-in clutch which was operated by foot. To start it, we had to put it on the stand, prime the cylinder with petrol, put it into gear, and rotate the back wheel. Once you got it going, you had to press the foot clutch, then you were ready to go.

When Fred went out Banding with my Dad, he used to give me a penny to shut up the hens. I was about 10 years old at the time, and being a bit of a Rocker, unknown to Fred, I used to take the bike out of the cow shed where he kept it when shutting up the chickens. Then Don Woolgrove and I used to have great fun on it until it ran out of petrol; then we had to push it back! When Fred found out about this, he used to put a chain round the back wheel, so that finished our great sport.

There weren't many jobs that he couldn't do, and mole catching was one of his jobs. He used to skin them and tack them on a board until they were dry, then he would send them off to some farm up north. That meant a bit extra cash for a pint of petrol or a pack of Woodbines at 2d for 5! By the way, petrol was only 10d a gallon, or 6d for half a gallon. These were called the "Good Old Days", but my! they were very hard indeed. Rooter, as Fred was called, could always catch a rabbit, skin it and cure the skin. A fresh rabbit was great grub in those days!

About 1931, he bought an A.J.S. 350 cc motor-cycle for £5 which was a real goer...No more belt trouble because it had a chain drive. In the early 30s he went to work for Harold Stewart who worked the stone pit at Gibraltar, and had come to Sibford in the 20s. They had two steam wagons and his partner was Mr Dix, so they were known as Stewart & Dix; most of their work was hauling stone all round the country for the Council.

Fred was a wide boy, always thinking of something new. He never had much time for women, although he would have made a good husband, but I'm sure he resented what we called 'petticoat rule.' He would be Fred, and do what he liked, when he liked.

In the years of the depression, times were very hard. I can still hear my mother say "Only one slice of bread and lard" - home cured, of course ... meat from the pigs that we always used to keep at the end of the garden. So you could say we were brought up on fat bacon, spuds and broad beans.

The older Fred got, the more amusing he became, and had some very queer sayings. People had a job to understand his talk. With more traffic coming on the roads they had to be improved, so Fred and a chap called Bert Breean turned to stone breaking.

The stone was drawn from the pits and dumped on the side of the road in 5 ton loads. I'm not sure, but I think when they first started, they got 6d a ton! They made good money at it, but they just couldn't pass a pub, so when they could they really lived it up (of course, no woman trouble). They were both single and pleased themselves.

Fred was a great believer in Hook Norton beer, and it didn't matter what pub you went to in a radius of 20 miles, they all knew Rooter and Bert. Banding was his love - or it might have been the free beer that the band always had. When war broke out in 1939, Fred went to work at Brimbo Iron Stone. Then when he was about 44 he was transferred to the G.W.R. to keep the lines open when and where they were bombed. After the war he worked for the Council as the sewerage attendant at Sibford, and later at Milcombe and also Hook Norton. He retired at 65 and then worked at the Friends School as a cleaner, which he did for ten years and really enjoyed. After that he did all kinds of jobs so long as there was a drop of beer and a few pounds in it, and he did so right up to the last year of his life. Every fortnight he used to have two dozen Hook ales, which he said kept him going.

He still had an all-groups Driving licence which is valid till 1991. Where he got the name Rooter from I do not know, but Boy! could he tell a good tale.

Brother Sid.

NEW VENTURE SCOUT UNIT FOR THE SIBFORDS AND SURROUNDING VILLAGES

1st the Sibfords Scout Group is about to achieve it's ambition of forming a fourth training section - Venture Scouts. The Group already has strong Beaver, Cub Scout and Scout sections, and for some time has been looking for leaders to start a senior training section for young people between the ages of fifteen and a half and twenty years.

Colin Akers, who for some months has been helping with the Scouts, has agreed to take out a warrant as Venture Scout Leader. We already have a number of young people, between the ages of fifteen and a half and twenty who have expressed an interest. Venture Scouts is still Unique in the Scout and Guide Movement as being the only section that is made up of young people from both sexes.

The First formal meeting will take place on Friday 14 September at 8pm at a venue yet to be agreed. Anyone between the ages mentioned who has an interest in the Scout movement and the activities it offers will be very welcome to come along.

Further information can be obtained from Keith Hicks on Swal. 259.

WATCH OUT FOR A "HOST OF GOLDEN DAFFODILS" NEXT SPRING

Beavers, Cubs and Scouts are about to embark on a major fund raising campaign, part of which involves selling bags of 100 Daffodil bulbs at £4.99. The bulbs are top quality and come from Lingarden, the world's largest bulb growing organisation.

Help brighten up your garden and our coffers. We plan to put in a bulk order in the middle of September.

Details and order forms from any uniform member, committee member or Keith Hicks on Swal. 259.
